MACROECONOMIC OVERVIEW

The US 10-year note began the year at 4.57% after the Federal Reserve (Fed) cut short term rates for the fourth time in four months. The new administration wasted little time and issued a flurry of executive orders and tariff plans. At the same time, they opened up talks with Russia and the middle east to achieve a cease fire. As all that was transpiring, the new Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE) slashed funding to various programs. During that period the US 10 Year notes swung up to 4.80% and ended the quarter at 4.20%. The tariff battle is in the early days, and uncertainty looms over both the equity and credit markets. PineBridge believes that tariffs will be short term inflationary and will prevent the Federal Reserve from lowering rates in any meaningful way in 2025, but the current situation is very fluid.

FUND OVERVIEW

Transamerica Inflation Opportunities (I Share Class) underperformed the Bloomberg US Inflation-Linked Index in the first quarter of 2025. The underperformance was primarily driven by the yield curve. In light of tariffs, PineBridge anticipated higher yields across the globe. After rising into mid-January, yields fell after the inauguration. Net of duration, European and Japanese inflation linked bonds outperformed US TIPS. Everything else the portfolio owned underperformed, as an allocation to corporate bonds detracted the most from performance.

OUTLOOK

The environment is steadfastly uncertain and fluid. The administration launched significant tariffs against the rest of the world, and the market's attempt to digest the flurry of headlines and determine the global response is still in flux as we have seen from both the equity and bond markets. If these tariffs persist, PineBridge believes that inflation will rise and inflation protected bonds could be a great addition to any fixed income portfolio.

The data shown represents past performance, which is no guarantee of future results. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data quoted. Please see transamerica.com for performance data current to the most recent month-end. The investment return and principal value of mutual funds will fluctuate over time so that shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Net asset value (NAV) returns include reinvestment of dividends and capital gains but do not reflect the deduction of any sales charges. If a sales charge had been deducted, the results would have been lower. Public offering price (POP) returns include reinvestment of dividends and capital gains and reflect the maximum sales charge. Performance for other share classes will vary.

The Max Sales Charge for Class A shares is 4.75%. There are no sales charges for Class I shares. Class I shares are primarily offered for investment to institutional investors including, but not limited to, fee-based programs, pension plans, and certain endowment plans and foundations. The minimum investment for Class I shares is $1,000,000 per fund account, but will be waived for certain investors.

Performance figures reflect any fee waivers and/or expense reimbursements by the Investment Manager. Without such waivers and/or reimbursements, the performance would be lower. Future waivers and/or reimbursements are at the discretion of the Investment Manager. Contractual arrangements, if any, have been made with Transamerica Asset Management, Inc. through 3/1/2026.

The Bloomberg US Treasury Inflation Protected Securities Index and the Bloomberg Global Inflation Linked Bond Index are unmanaged indices used as general measures of market performance. It is not possible to invest directly into an index. Calculations assume dividends and capital gains are reinvested and do not include any managerial expenses.

Fixed-income securities are subject to risks including credit risk, interest rate risk, counterparty risk, prepayment risk, extension risk, valuation risk, and liquidity risk. High yield bonds tend to be volatile and more susceptible to adverse events, credit downgrades and negative sentiments. The price of an inflation-protected debt security can fall when real interest rates rise. Interest payments on inflation-protected debt securities can be unpredictable and will vary as the principal and/or interest is adjusted for inflation.

Shares may be sold (or "redeemed") on any day the New York Stock Exchange is open for business. Proceeds from the redemption of shares will usually be sent to the redeeming shareholder within two business days after receipt in good order of a request for redemption. However, Transamerica Funds has the right to take up to seven days to pay redemption proceeds, and may postpone payment under certain circumstances, as authorized by law.

Mutual funds are subject to market risk, including loss of principal. Past performance is not indicative of future results.
